

Spring 2022

Time to step up to the challenge

Heat loss from a typical house

As energy bills soar, and people have to make hard decisions about what they can now afford, it is time for the government to take radical action to protect health and lives.

The simplest way to make progress is to ensure that all dwellings are properly insulated, so that heat is not wasted. But over recent years, government support has disappeared.

Our MP, Philip Dunne, who is Chair of the Environmental Audit Committee in parliament, is supportive of measures to address climate issues. Please write to him, and urge him to continue pressing the government to do what is necessary, both for the climate and for people's health and finances!
